

CHECKPOINT 59

Checkpoint 59 is a competition where the teams have to get to 16 checkpoints as fast as possible. The group is divided into teams of 4-6 people and each team must appoint a team captain. The team captain can only communicate with the rest of the team through a two way radio. The team captains task is to lead his team to all checkpoints with the help of a map. At every checkpoint the team will find a colour or a letter that they will have to report back to their captain. The team who finds all the checkpoints first and have all the colours right wins.

This may sound easy but it is really hard. Communication and cooperation is put to the test. One important detail is that they only have 59 minutes to solve this.
